Arkansas Solons Vote Opposite On Funds Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas senators voted opposite each other Monday in a 62-29 vote by which the Senate tabled "the end-the-war amendment" that Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., offered to cut off all funds for fighting in Indochina by June 30, 1971.

Indians May Get Money For Lands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Indian Claims Commission Monday accepted much of the Navajo Indians' contention that they were shortchanged on millions of acres of Western land.

The Navajos won't get the land—mostly suitable only for grazing and lightly populated—but they may get a considerable dollar settlement once the commission pins down the specific acreage the Indians held in "aboriginal title" and tallies its cash value as of 1868. That was the year they were placed on a reservation.

Monday's order climaxed a suit filed in 1951 involving many other Indian tribes with conflicting land claims.

The government said the Navajos could prove consistent, exclusive use of no more than 10 million acres in Arizona and New Mexico.

The commission Monday ruled that the Hopis should have been paid, by 1937 land rates, for the 1.9 million acres taken from them and should have been paid, by 1882 land rates, for what one official estimated at up to 5 million acres in aboriginal claims.

over-run of $28,499, or an anticipated balance in the LTWSC construction fund of $52,016.91.

Construction of the project treatment plan by Talen Construction Co. originally contracted at $2,089,400, resulted in an anticipated estimated overrun of $27,999 and construction of the member city reservoirs by Penner Const. Co., contracted at $230,000, resulted in an anticipated estimated overrun of $500.

All other construction resulted in under-run. Paul N. Howard Co., contracted at $2,359,113.75 for Section I and II, listed a total anticipated under-run of $26,085.36. Preston Carroll Co., contracted at $748,178.25 for Section III of the project, listed a total anticipated under-run of $47,430.55, and Wilks, Dake, and Steed, Inc., contracted at $497,725.75 for Section IV of the project, listed a total anticipated under-run of $13,000.

The board also approved a motion to invite State Sen. A.M. Aikin Jr. of Paris and U. S. Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana to dedication ceremonies of the LTWSC project tentatively scheduled for Aug. 22 in New Boston. According to board members, Aikin and Patman are the two men most responsible in assisting the corporation in getting funds for the project and implementing it.

Board member's commenting on the progress of the project described it as "rolling along well," and "doing real good."

TO REPLACE MEDICAID

Federal Health Insurance Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A task force appointed by the Nixon administration recommended Monday replacing medicaid with federal health insurance for all of the poor.

It advocated also a new consumer voice in the operation of major health institutions and endorsed federal pre-eminence in shaping a coherent system of medical-care delivery.

The task force declined to judge the desirability of general national health insurance, appeared to step in that direction.

President Nixon already has adopted a portion of the insurance proposal from the 27-man task force headed by Walter J. McNerney, president of the Blue Cross Association.

The administration has announced it will submit legislation next year providing federal health insurance for the estimated six million families that would be eligible for the pending family welfare assistance reform plan.

The McNerney commission, however, wants all poor persons —single or married, with or without children—made eligible for federal insurance with a uniform level of health benefits.

It would replace some 50 federal-state medicaid programs now operating for the poor and medically indigent.

"The promise of medicaid, that some care at least would be available to all who needed it, has vanished into the obscurity of state determinations of eligibility and parsimony of state determinations of solvency," the report said.

The task force estimated that total medicaid costs have skyrocketed to over $6 billion a year while "only about one-third of the 30-40 million indigent and medically indigent who could potentially be covered ... will in fact receive services."

The commission, weighted heavily with health professionals and representatives of health insurance providers offered a strong endorsement of consumer participation in government and community health organizations.

"The size of the gap in consumer access to the decision-making machinery of health care is apparent from the fact that few institutions and programs incorporate users of their services in policymaking or governing boards in spite of their nonprofit and presumably community purpose.

"The result is that medical care is still too often delivered at the time and place and in the way convenient to provider rather than consumer.

The task force called on the federal government to spur and coordinate alternatives to the traditional doctor and hospital care. It mentioned neighborhood clinics for the poor, prepaid group practice, and home health-care programs.

Senate Votes to Postpone Action on Funds Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to postpone action on "The Amendment to End the War," thus assuring more prolonged debate on Southeast Asia and putting off a showdown the White House wanted now.

By a vote of 62 to 29, the Senate tabled an amendment offered by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo. It would have cut off all funds for fighting in Indochina by June 30, 1971.

The lopsided vote, however was as much a reflection of Senate jealousy over proper procedure as it was of opposition to widening the Vietnam conflict.

Allott was opposed to his own amendment which used the identical language of a proposal offered several weeks ago by two Senate doves—Democrat George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Republican Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

Allott offered it under his own name last week as a rider to the foreign military sales bill that has been the vehicle for eight weeks of debate over the U.S. incursion into Cambodia.

Republicans made no secret of the fact they hoped to kill the proposal outright, undermining administration critics who plan to bring it up later during debate over defense appropriations and thus keep pressure on the President.

Only three Democrats voted against the tabling motion.

Southern Democrats, who normally back the administration on the war, went along with majority leader Mike Mansfield's motion to table because they regarded the Allott move as an assault on Senate procedures.

Woman Injured In Accident

A 70-year-old Texarkana, Tex., woman was slightly injured about 9:15 a.m. Monday in a two-car collision at the intersection of Seventh and Robinson Road.

Officer Waylane Blair said an automobile driven by Frank Brown—Mrs. Brown's husband—was traveling east on Seventh St., and attempted a left turn onto Robison Road.

Blair said Brown's car collided with a car driven by George Glover, 70, of Colton, Calif., who was going west on Seventh.
